MANSFIELD'S "JULIUS CESAR"

AS PRESENTED AT THE OLYMPIC IS A MASSIVE STAGE PRODUCTION

RICHARD MANSFIELD AS BRUTUS.
(As He Appears in the Scene in the Senate.)

Great crowds on both sides of the foot-lights made notable Richard Mansfield's revival of "Julius Caesar" at the Olympic Theater last night, for it is to the mob on the stage rather than to the work of the star that Mansfield's production of Shakespeare's masterpiece owes its prestige over other productions heretofore seen.

In other words, it is to Mansfield the producer—the stage manager if you please—rather than to Mansfield the tragedian that the success of the revival is due.

For Richard Mansfield, I take it, will never go down in the history of the stage as a great Brutus.

We have seen Mansfield in a number of parts in which he was greater than in that of Shakespeare's noblest Roman, and while we must commend Mr. Mansfield as a producer and—as last night's great audience proves—a wise business man, we shall all be forced to admit that there are plays in which he has shone with much greater brilliancy than in "Julius Caesar." Mansfield is not a tragedian.

But for all that the great artist is seen in Mansfield's work. It is seen in his own acting; in his conception of the character; in his modesty in the opening scenes; in his biting and incisive as the conspiracy advances; in his good taste in putting Brutus in the background in those places where the playwright intended he should be so placed; in the growth of the character from scene to scene until he finally puts an end to his life in a manner that causes the least shock to the sensibilities.

In all these things, say the critics, he shows himself a great artist—greater as an actor, too, than as a reader of Shakespeare's familiar lines; for it must be admitted that his reading last night was frequently marred by mannerisms of speech that made the words indistinct.

But the production as a whole left little to be desired.

In "Julius Caesar," the greatest of all historical dramas, history has supplied the raw material in the life of Caesar, his murder and the events that led up to it. From this splendid material Shakespeare has constructed a drama which has done more than all else written about Julius Caesar to impress upon the world the tragic theme of his life.

That Shakespeare was a genius and not a mere narrator of events is shown in his dealing with the tremendous theme of the Roman conspiracy and the tragedy which it brought about. He has transformed the dull play of history into a living, breathing story that must of needs touch all hearts with the great speech of Brutus to the Roman people, with that masterpiece of subtle and convincing oratory in which Marc Antony stirred the very stones of Rome to rise and mutiny, and with the quarrel between Brutus and Cassius.

With such a background, with such words to utter, how could any artist, or group of artists, who have risen to the prominence of Mr. Mansfield and his supporting company, fail to entertain and instruct even though the play does consume four long hours and was interspersed last night with innumerable tedious waits? And they did not fail. Although the audience that left the Olympic at 12 o'clock was tired it felt amply repaid. It had seen such a production as is butting once in a decade, or more, and it seemed to have been a living, breathing play.

Take two of the strong scenes as given by Mr. Mansfield last night for a sample and the character of the production will be made manifest to those who did not see it. First, the encounter of Brutus with Cassius, who is in his vaulted tent, which is unlighted except for the timid flame of an oil vessel. Two guards are asleep at the door. Lucius has fallen asleep while playing his lute, and Brutus tries to cheat his melancholy with a book. Presently a ray and then a shaft of light strike Brutus, and he is startled. He starts, alarmed, but at first speechless, for though invisible to all else, Brutus catches the ghost of the murdered Caesar. With the ghost of the murdered Caesar, Brutus questions the specter. In terror he calls his page and his guards but they see nothing. He is transfixed with fright and horror, a weird unforgettable picture of spiritual hallucination as the curtains close on him. In the second in the death scene, Brutus is the critical term applied to the scene. The defeated general, high on a rock, leaning against a stricken pine, covers his face and breast with his golden shield and tremblingly but firmly thrusts his sword into his heart. There is a heavy silence, and then the knife withdrawn.

falls; the shield is lowered and discloses a face ecstatic in its calmness the chin drops onto the shield and Brutus is dead.

That both scenes made a strong impression on last night's audience was demonstrated by the wonderful applause. After the scene in the tent the audience demanded Mr. Mansfield's appearance before the curtain, but his manager, Mr. Lyman Glover, appeared in his stead and announced that while Mr. Mansfield appreciated the honor, he felt that it would be inartistic for him to appear, thereby dispelling the illusion of the play.

Mr. Mansfield had some good support, the Cassius of Mr. Harry Johnston and the Brutus of Mr. Arthur Forrest standing forth pre-eminently. The latter has a somewhat different idea of the part from the conventional Antony and there is good reason for his conception. He was always a brilliant figure in last night's production and gave the oration over Caesar's dead body in a manner that even for him an ovation and brought him before the curtain several times. He is a clever actor, but not particularly good Shakespearean actor.

A noticeable feature of last night's production was found in the number of persons in the audience who were unfamiliar with the play. So little did they know their Shakespeare that many failed to recognize Brutus until Cassius spoke his name. When they discovered the identity of Mr. Mansfield, they broke into applause, out of time and out of place. The thought suggested was, "Are we beginning to neglect Shakespeare as a part of our literary education?"

The Columbia this week is filled from here to there with rollicking sketches. "The Biograph" is a laughable but boisterous in its cannon-bill progress. Of the single turns will be Fox in his monologue, a red wig which formerly belonged to a female gambler, and which changes the nature of any wearer. This fact compels the maid to indulge in a few of the minor pieces, to the mortification of her lover, who has just returned after an absence of 10 years, until the red shock is accidentally knocked to the floor, when the speaker broken and explanations made. Miss Du Pont cleverly shows a not exaggerated type of untutored country lass, and later, of the reckless, sporty character. With different support her talent would better stand the test.

Wilfred Clark and company are seen in a farce-comedy, "The Three Jockeys do some bone-breaking feats in heavy-weight acrobatics. Thomas Nast, Jr., entertains as an ambidextrous rapid-fire caricaturist. Hacker and Lester, comedy wheelmen; Turner and DeCarville, trick banjoists; Standard Colored Quartet, Holmes and Waldron, musical team; Stuart Barnes, monologist, and Howard's Pony Circus fill out the bill.

Found in Creve Coeur Lake. The body of Frank Slezak, the tinner who was drowned in Lower Creve Coeur Lake on Oct. 22 while fishing, was recovered yesterday morning opposite St. Louis Park. His wife was telephoned for and she identified the body.

W. J. Morgan notified Manager Jacob Studt of the park that there was a man's body opposite the pleasure ground, and it was immediately surmised that the remains were those of Slezak. The body was brought to this city for burial.

BAER'S ANSWER TO THE MINERS

CONTENDS THAT THEIR WAGES

MAKES REPLY TO MITCHELL

Declares That the Advent of the Union
Is Responsible for Bad Conditions
in Coal Fields.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The reply of President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Co. to the charges of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, which has been presented to the anthracite coal strike commission, was today given to the public.

Mr. Baer makes no reference to Mr. Mitchell as the president of the miners' organization but refers to him simply as an individual. Taking up the specifications in Mr. Mitchell's charges seriatim, Mr. Baer first admits that his company owns 37 collieries and that, before the strike, it employed 26,328 persons. Following is a brief summary of the responses to Mr. Mitchell's other specifications:

1. The demand for 20 per cent increase in wages on piecework is denounced as "arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust."

The company contends that, after making all necessary allowance for different conditions, the rate of wages paid for the mining of anthracite coal is as high as that paid in the bituminous coal fields.

2. The company denies that the present wages are now lower than wages paid in other occupations in the same locality and controlled by like conditions.

3. Mr. Baer denies that the earnings of the anthracite workers are less than average earnings for other occupations requiring skill and training and also the charge that the earnings are

Poor, Giving No Heed to His Own Tomorrow.

Provide neither gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses. Nor scrip for your journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet staves: for the workman is worthy of his meat."

If a man ever died according to his desires that man was Frederick Wheldon. The simple tragedy of his going was as that of the life that he lived before it.

Last Sunday morning Mr. Wheldon attended the service in the plain little church of the Plymouth Brethren. He had spoken plainly of his life, and the happiness it had brought him. He asked the brethren to pray for him, and with a presence that, in the light of events which followed, seems almost to have been inspired, he said:

"Brethren, I am going to die soon." With the congregation he partook of the communion. At the conclusion of the rites he stood for an instant, raising his eyes aloft as if in prayer. Then he bowed and fell to the floor before those who rushed to catch him reached his side. When they raised him he was dead.

The doctors said that his death was caused by heart disease. Those who knew him best believe that he was called to his reward for the good he had done.

"ALL ACCOUNTS SQUARED." When they took account of his affairs they found his debts paid and the residue of his estate only $2.00. But, as one of his humble friends expressed it, he was gone with all accounts squared, both in heaven and on earth.

Monday they buried him from a small room in an undertaking establishment, with services that were simple and touching. Men spoke of the life of sacrifice and self-abnegation he had led that might fulfill the duty he felt divinely called on to perform the distribution of God's word to those who otherwise would not have it.

It was a widely diversified body that thus paid their last tribute to the man whose work they knew, but of whose life they knew little. Men from the higher walks of the business life of this city sat with weeping women from the tenements and humble homes in all quarters. Each from his own standpoint knew the man for his worth or his example.

As he lived, so he died, "without sorcery and without guile," and his burial expenses were borne jointly by the St. Louis Bible Society and the Plymouth Brethren.

But it was the cheerful note in the man's life that was in strange contrast with his tragic taking.

How he lived while thus working for duty few knew. His wife was very simple. He literally followed the injunction of Jesus to "Take, therefore, no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

He lodged in a small room in the rear of 2327 Carr street, where he cooked for himself the simplest of fare and lived almost like an anchorite in his cell. His income was derived from the one or two hours a day he devoted to temporal things. It could not have been more than $5 a week, often less.

Samuel G. Leake, who was fined $100 yesterday morning by Judge Sidener for running what he called the World's Fair Bureau, was identified in Chief Desmond's office yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Mollie Pritz, of 1838 South Twelfth street, as the man who assaulted, she alleges, her child Nov. 2.

Mrs. Pritz could not restrain her rage when the man was taken before her, and, as she was crying, she crashed it upon the prisoner's head with considerable force, and continued to hammer him until the officers drew her away.

St. Louis A. A. A. Growing. The St. Louis Amateur Athletic Association of the western division yesterday afternoon elected to membership the Scottish Clans and the St. Patricks. This makes four clubs that have joined the association since the beginning of the year, and gives it a membership of seven clubs.

MRS. TEVIS MAY TAKE FIRST LOVE

Society Hears Widow Will Wed Gerald Hughes.

SHE JILTED HIM FOR TEVIS

THEIR MARRIAGE DAY THEN
ONLY TWO WEEKS OFF.

They Met by Chance Not Long Ago,
Now It Is Rumored That They Are Sweethearts Again.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Beautiful Cornelia Baxter Tevis may wed Gerald Hughes after all.

It is reported here, in Denver and in San Francisco, that the widow of Hugh Tevis has relapsed to her old love. The man she jilted a fortnight before her wedding to the California multi-millionaire.

Mr. Hughes is speeding eastward as fast as a limited train can bring him from Denver to New York. Mrs. Tevis is expected at the Holland House on Wednesday.

Dispatches from both San Francisco and Denver recite that the bitterness between the couple all died away and that they met. Becoming conversant, the physicians had to move.

GAVE BIBLES TO THE NEEDY.
He was master of the simple life. For 15 years he was devoted to the distribution of bibles among the poor. For 10 of these years he bought bibles with his own earnings and gave them away. About four years ago he offered his time and work without compensation to the St. Louis Bible Society, which has the distribution of bibles bought with the Edward Bradell memorial fund of $40,000.

Every morning he went to the rooms of the St. Louis Bible Society at 135 West Second street, where he was given a supply of bibles for distribution. Then he set out on foot into the byways where the poor abode. Knocking at a door he would say: "I have nothing to sell, but the best thing of all to give for nothing."

This generally admitted him, when he would speak cheerfully of life and perhaps read a chapter from the book to some one in sorrow or sin, and go his way to the next.

Often he was rebuffed and driven away with curses or ridicule, but he was neither discouraged nor deterred. So, in his pilgrimages into the haunts of the poor in his time, he gave away many thousands of Bibles.

AND HE GAVE TO THE POOR.
It is told of him that many a time he went without food or comfortable raiment that he might relieve the miseries of those poorer than himself from his meager funds.

Most persons welcomed him for his happy, quiet manner, and for the wonderfully sweet smile that never seemed to leave his face. In temperament he was singularly well adapted for the life he led. Nothing seemed to fatigue him in the line of his self-imposed duty, but it is thought that the privations he was called upon to endure resulted in his death.

Mr. Wheldon was an Englishman, and 60 years of age. He was capable of earning a good income as a sign painter, and in 10 or 15 years ago had been very successful as a salesman for his own account to carry the gospel to the poor.

Whether he was bachelor or widower none knew, for he was reticent in speaking of his life, which he considered a matter of no consequence, but his death will deprive the poor of a cheerful and steadfast friend.

SAYS CANADA WILL JOIN THE STATES

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND DECLARES ANNEXATION IS INEVITABLE

NO CONQUEST AND NO WAR

"Hearts Are Already Beating for Us and Agriculture and Commerce Are Calling for Us."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The dinner of the Minnesota Society was held at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. Archbishop Ireland was the chief speaker. He predicted the absorption of Canada by the United States. "One week ago," said the archbishop, "I stood on the shores of the Big Stone Lake. The waters to the right went to the south, the waters to the left went to the north and Hudson Bay. I don't intend to utter bellicose words, but let me say that as sure as fate, though you and I may not see it, the stars and stripes will wave over all that territory one day. It will be no conquest; no war."

"Hearts there are already beating for us. We cannot go on as we have. Take St. Louis, for instance. Other American cities are like this. The hearty element of mankind, this driving and being driven, exists in all its enormity in all our American cities. I think Minneapolis has set a good example. It might well be followed by New York City."

MAJ. RAINWATER DIED LAST NIGHT

Stomach Trouble Caused Ex-Confederate Officer's End.

SERVED UNDER MARMADUKE

ONE OF THE MEN WHO BUILT THE MERCHANTS' BRIDGE.

He Was the Founder of the Rainwater Rifles, and Member of Many Mercantile and Social Organizations.

Maj. Charles C. Rainwater, a prominent St. Louis business man and a former distinguished officer in the Confederate army, died at his home, No. 21 Benton place, at 6 o'clock Monday evening, aged 65 years.

Stomach trouble, from which Maj. Rainwater had been a sufferer for several months, reached an acute stage Friday and he was forced to remain at home. He grew rapidly worse, and suffered intense pain before his death.

Born in Ray County, Mo., he served in the Confederate army as a major on Gen. Marmaduke's staff, and located in St. Louis after the war.

For many years Maj. Rainwater was engaged in the wholesale hat business. In recent years he has devoted himself to other interests, however. With Seth W. Cobb he was instrumental in building the Merchants' Bridge and was president of the bridge company from its inception until his death. He was also president of the St. Louis Street Cleaning Company, and largely interested in the Holiday-Klotz Lumber Company. Maj. Rainwater was a Mason, an enthusiastic member of the ex-Confederate organizations, and a member of the Mercantile and Union Clubs.

He was also the founder of the Rainwater Rifles.

Maj. Rainwater is survived by a widow but no children. Mrs. Rainwater has been for many years the head of the Woman's Training School and has been identified with other charitable and philanthropic organizations.

He is also survived by five sisters: Mrs. Catherine Young of Ray County, Mrs. Mary Pinckard and Mrs. Amelia Pugh of Kansas City, Kan., and Mrs. Sarah Petree and Mrs. Alice Saunders, who reside at his home.

MISSOURI LEADS CORN STATES

Average Yield for the State Was Thirty-Nine Bushels to the Acre.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The following table shows, for all states having 1,000,000 acres or upward in corn, the preliminary estimates of average yield per acre in bushels in 1902, with the final estimate in 1901 and 1900 and the mean of the averages of the last 10 years:

States.	1902.	1901.	1900.	10-year
Illinois	38.7	21.4	37.0	31.8
Iowa	32.0	21.4	38.0	30.6
Kansas	30.4	7.8	19.0	20.0
Nebraska	32.0	10.1	28.0	23.4
Missouri	39.0	10.1	28.0	23.4
Texas	8.1	11.6	18.0	15.5
Indiana	19.8	18.8	18.0	18.5
Georgia	9.0	10.0	10.0	10.0
Tennessee	4.5	10.0	10.0	10.0
Kentucky	27.0	15.6	26.0	24.8
Ohio	28.0	26.1	27.0	27.8
Alabama	8.4	10.9	11.0	12.0
North Carolina	14.2	12.0	12.0	12.0
Arkansas	8.1	10.0	11.0	11.3
Mississippi	11.5	10.9	11.0	11.4
Virginia	22.2	15.2	15.0	17.5
South Carolina	10.7	6.9	7.0	9.1
South Dakota	21.1	21.0	27.0	21.3

EXCURSION TO THE SOUTH.

Merchants and Manufacturers Will Visit Arkansas and Louisiana.

All arrangements for the seventh excursion of St. Louis merchants and manufacturers to leave this city next Sunday for a week's tour of the South have been practically completed by H. S. Tuttle. Communications have been sent to mayors of towns to be visited and commercial organizations have been notified that the delegation is coming. About 75 business men have given assurance that they intend going, but all have not yet signed the agreement.

The excursion is a purely social matter, giving the merchants an opportunity to become personally acquainted with the trade of Arkansas and Louisiana. The itinerary follows:

Paris, Ark., Jonesboro, Harrisburg, Wynne, Forest City, Marianna and Helena, Ark., Monday; Clarendon, Stuttgart, Pine Bluff, Fordyce and Camden, Ark., Tuesday; Magnolia, Ark., Homer, Gibland and Shreveport, La., Wednesday; Stamps, Lewisville, Texarkana, Hope, Prescott, Gordon and Arkadelphia, Ark., Thursday; Malvern, Hot Springs, Benton, Little Rock and Argenta, Ark., Friday; Beebe, Searcy, Judsonia, Bald Knob, Newport and Corning, Ark., Saturday.

$18 to New Orleans and Return $18 Via Mobile & Ohio Railroad.

Tickets on sale November 11, 12, 13, 17 and 18 at 518 Olive street and Union Station.

Six Hours to Chicago.

A six-hour service between St. Louis and Chicago is proposed by the Illinois Central railroad, and preparations are being made to put on a train that will cut down the present running time two hours. The Vandalia already has announced that it would put on a fast train between New York and St. Louis, and the Wabash is expected to do the same, while the Frisco and the Rock Island will follow later. When the Frisco-Big Four deal is completed a Chicago service is anticipated on the former road.

DOUKHOBORS MUST GO HOME

Canadian Government Is Dispersing the Marchers and Taking Them to Their Villages.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11.—What the authorities hope will be the last chapter in the Doukhobor pilgrimage began today at Yorkton when the government officials started the Swan river contingent on their homeward way.

Early this morning Agent Speers and an interpreter went direct to the car and informed the strange religionists of their decision.

Mounted police lined the front of the cars and the Doukhobors were given the choice of coming willingly.

Spears started with one of the leaders and the others reluctantly followed. Everything went well for about a quarter of a mile, when they halted and it was found necessary to load several of the leaders, very much against their will, into wagons, where they were kept. Again the procession started very slowly.

They seem to be in a rebellious spirit still and it is thought considerable difficulty will be experienced before they are landed at their villages. The leaders declare they will return the first opportunity.

The Doukhobor women are urging the men to go out again in search of the Messiah.

Ex-Mail Clerk Buss Indicted.

Indictments were returned yesterday by the Federal grand jury against C. H. Buss, Ewing and C. R. Rainey, Edward and Robert Miller and John and James Fortner. Buss was a railway mail clerk and is charged on 13 counts with stealing letters from the mail car. He was indicted a year ago, but the information was quashed on a flaw in the framing of it.

JUSTICE HANSMANN RETIRES

Had Petition Fifty-Seven Feet Long Urging Reappointment, but Withdrew It in Favor of Friend.

Justice of the Peace Eugene Hansmann, of Maplewood, withdrew his petition for reappointment to the office he now holds, yesterday. He arose from a sick bed to do it, because he learned that his old friend, Henry C. Helmering, the retiring county clerk, wanted the job.

Hansmann's petition was a wonder. It was 57 feet long. When he withdrew his, A. E. L. Gardner did the same for R. L. Stevens, leaving clear sailing into office for Helmering. Hansmann has held the position for a long time and became known as a wonderfully versatile man, so much so as to be known as the great "I am."

His term expired last Tuesday, and the County Court is expected to make the appointment of a new justice very shortly.

HELD FOR MURDER.He Has a Bad Record and the Authorities Now Believe They Have the Perpetrator of the Shocking Crimes.CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11.—The discharge of Alan G. Mason, the Boston clubman, accused of the murder of Clara A. Morton at Waverly a week ago last Sunday night, was ordered by Judge Charles Almy of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex today. The government lawyer announced that an investigation had failed to disclose evidence sufficient to hold
the accused man, and ordered the discharge
of Mason.Almost immediately, in the same court, George L. O. Perry, a young negro who yesterday was held as a witness against Mason, was charged with the murder of Miss Morton. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded without bail for a hearing
Nov. 18.After his release, Mason held an informal reception and after a short time was driven to his home in Boston.Mason is a prominent clubman of this city, a Harvard graduate, and a firm member of the piano manufacturing house of Mason & Hamlin.Mason is the son of the late Henry
Mason, the founder of the Mason & Hamlin
Co. He has three brothers. All four are Harvard men.The crimes for which Mason was supposed to be responsible were of a character
to denote the perpetrator to be mentally unbalanced. In each instance a young woman attacked, and each one was a domestic. Since the first mysterious assault 12 other victims have been attacked in the same manner. The following is a list of the assaults made by the "Jack the Slugger," the dates of the attacks and the nature of the wounds inflicted:June 17—Kate O'Connell, assaulted corner of Walker and Cambridge streets, Cambridge; severe scalp wounds.July 17—Sloegry, assaulted, Chestnut and Magazine streets, Cambridge; severe scalp wounds.July 27—Ellen Murphy, in Craigie street, Cambridge; severe scalp wounds.Aug. 5—Janet Marshall, in Center street, Brookline; fractured skull.Oct. 3—Agnes E. McPhee, in Chester street, Brookline; fractured skull; died
three days later.Oct. 10—Susan O'Neill; knocked down and strangled in Somerville.Oct. 16—Mrs. Byron Eldred; threatened with a revolver in Brookline.Oct. 18—Jane Laddell, knocked down in Watertown by a well-dressed middle-aged man.

Oct. 22—Bertha Smith; struck in Boston.

Oct. 21—Lulu Miller; seized in Cambridge.

Oct. 25—Mrs. H. Stentford; attacked in Somerville.Oct. 30—Mrs. W. H. Whitney; struck with iron bar in Somerville by a middle-aged white man.Nov. 1—Clara Morton; struck with iron bar in McLean asylum grounds.Perry, the negro now accused of these assaults and murders, has a bad record.
When 14 years of age he got into trouble
while attending the Sherwin School, and later was sent away for larceny. This was in 1899. He was on Columbia avenue with another colored youth when he was seen pocketbook from a woman. His companion
was arrested and in order to save himself
"squealed" on Perry. The latter was sent to the Lyman School for Boys. He came back to Boston last May, and it was on June 17 that the first of the "Jack the Slugger" crimes were reported.It is now said that at least four persons saw a strange colored man in Waverly between 7 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock on the night of the Morton murder. The general description of the man as given by these people, while lacking in detail, agrees closely with that of the negro companion who pawed Miss Morton's watch at Menner's
shop.

SAW REAL MASTODONS ALIVE

Captain of Whaler Says Eskimos Declare They Heard Grandfathers Talk of Great Animals.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Capt. A.
Newth, who returned on the bark Teaneta,
Capt. Newth touched at Banks Land, discovered in 1819 by Sir William Edward Parry and named after Sir Joseph Banks.I encountered some Eskimos, said Capt. Newth, "who, in a perfectly candid
way and without any motive for deception,
told me their grandfathers had seen mastodonts alive. I talked at length with these old natives and nothing could shake their stories."They said they remembered, when young, of having heard their grandfathers
talk about seeing a few of the big animals.
I asked them to describe them, and they
sketched the mammoth or mastodon.
In many cases the skeletons seemed to me
not to have lain there for ages. They were too fresh looking for that. I do not know any reason for doubting the Eskimos'
stories."

KELLY'S DOUBLE, NOT KELLY

Police Believe That Many Mistook Dr.
B. L. Dorsey for the Missing
Delegate.The police are now convinced that the persons who reported that they saw Chas.
F. Kelly in a dozen different sections of the town on various occasions were mistaken into the belief that Dr. B. L. Dorsey of 122 North Taylor avenue was the missing delegate.Dr. Dorsey looks, speaks, acts and dresses like Kelly, and has been spoken to
by friends of the missing man scores of times and called by the fugitive's name.
He was once arrested by a special officer
who would not even believe almost convincing proofs that he was not Kelly, and he has met men who insisted upon treating him and talking Kelly's business with him.He is about the same age, same height,
same complexion, same almost everything,
and he says that Kelly has been somewhat discomfited more than once by the resemblance. He also met with many "spontaneous" cures. The doctor drives about during the day, and it is believed that many who have seen him in his business clothes and have reported that they saw Kelly.Weapons Used by Boston Slugger
in Murderous Attacks on Women

1. Pony ax used in assault on Katie O'Connell in Cambridge on June 17.
2. Iron bar with which Signa Gavanova was struck on July 17.
3. Angle iron used in assault on Ella Murphy on July 27.
4. Broken furnace wrench with which Agnes E. McPhee was struck Oct. 3.
5. Bolt found in Mason & Hamlin's factory yard at 128 Broadway, Cambridgeport, by a reporter, and reproduced because of its similarity to weapons used in some of the slugger assaults.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Prince Hohenlohe
is angry—even angrier than ever before.
He is represented in San Francisco dispatches as having been financed by a marriage bureau in his alleged endeavors to marry a rich American heiress."All are lies," says he. He wants revenge.Hohenlohe is a bank clerk in a house in Wall street which has strong connections at Frankfurt and Bremen. The prince is particularly desirous of prosecuting his former friend, Lawyer O'Brien, of San Francisco, who gave out the story of the prince's alleged attempt to marry Miss Goelet. His lawyer today advised the prince to "go slowly."Another person mentioned in O'Brien's charges was Baron Richard von Kap-Herr, German military attaché at Washington,
and an intimate friend of the Vanderbilts.
Astor and others of the "400." It was the baron who arranged the private theatricals
for Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt last summer, for which the whole "Wild Rose"
company, and complete midways, were transported to Newport for the edification of her guests.It was the baron, too, who was robbed by two women in the tenderloin last summer. They elbowed him into a hallway in Madison avenue and relieved him of his pocketbook, which contained $150 and valuable papers.Soon after, it was said, his connection with the German embassy ceased.Two weeks ago the baron was served
with an attachment by a deputy sheriff
in Madison avenue and relieved him of his friend, Count Oganetski, a press agent to report that their diamonds have been stolen.

WATCH A SMALL THING

An Alarm Clock Would Have Gone Off

O fair Lillian Berri, Maud Lillian—take care!
Just as sure as you're reading this colloquial

You'll deeply regret it—in time—so beware!

"We'd better call time on Maud Lillian Berri," suggested a Thespian temporarily sojourning in St. Louis, over the wine and walnuts last night, and an examination
by means of the X-ray revealed therein
a tiny Swiss watch.Miss Berri remembered having gone to sleep with the timepiece in her hand, and that it was missing when she awoke. She did not recall having swallowed it. Dr.
Hatch of Quincy said that the watch would not cause any further trouble."We must watch that woman," continued the actor quoted before. I think she must be trying to get into the legitimate drama.
Otherwise why would she do a thing like that? She must be preparing for a debut of some sort. Do you suppose any woman would swallow a watch just for pastime?"Each man in his time plays many parts,
as our illustrious patron, Will Shakespeare,

A LABOR UNIONUnique Movement Making Headway in Chicago.

ALL SEEM OF ONE MIND

HAND IN HAND WITH THE FATH-ERS OF MANY PUPILS.Almost Unanimous Conclusion
Reached at a Meeting of Instructors at Which the Proposition
Was Widely Discussed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The Chicago Teachers' Federation seeks a charter as a labor union from the American Federation of Labor. The members would affiliate with the Chicago Federation of Labor.At an interesting session held in Fullerton Hall, and after four hours' earnest deliberation, the large corps of instructors in the public schools of this city voted almost unanimously to appeal for recognition
as a labor union.The movement which was commenced
early in October by several teachers well known for their interest in the corporation
tax fight, has been strongly advocated since that time. It was first discussed at a meeting of the federation on Oct. 18,
but the plan then evolved, and which succeeded yesterday, was kept a close secret.
The teachers hope for material benefits from this alliance. They would become a factor in the Chicago Federation of Labor,
which now controls 20,000 voters. By acquiring the influence of this vote they see their fight for better conditions ably assisted.Miss Jane Addams, who is an honorary member of the union, has been a strong advocate of the plan of uniting the teachers, and she made an address before the body yesterday.Leading officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor have urged the teachers to join the union, and have offered programs
of sympathy and congratulation to President John Mitchell were received with thanks
by the teachers.The teachers feel that they are at once closely allied with the laboring man through the tuition of his children. Backed by the vote of the teachers, which they have only
hoped to attain, they expect to revolutionize the public school system.

10,000 GREATER Than the total of the next largest bonded
Want Medium west of the Mississippi.

So far the cold wave is only hot air.
Six candidates are all speaking at once for the speakership.
In short, we have a locomotive shortage, a car shortage and a subsidiary coin shortage.
Prosperity is brilliantly though painfully reflected in the car
and locomotive famine.
Foreigners are surely beginning to go the American gait when they are adopting the cakewalk.
The Democratic governor of Rhode Island will be likely to feel a good deal like the cat that finds herself in a strange garret.

INTERNATIONAL GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

In line with the suggestion of the Post-Dispatch, President Kingsland of the Business Men's League has called a meeting of representatives of all the business organizations of St. Louis, to take steps to insure the holding of the International Good Roads Convention in this city. As stated in President Kingsland's letter, published elsewhere, the meeting is to be held at the Mer-canton Club Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.
Realizing the importance of this convention to St. Louis and Missouri, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. has agreed to bear one-half the expense of the convention.
It is to be hoped that the business interests of St. Louis will recognize the great importance of this convention and make Thursday's meeting a success. St. Louis is the best place for such a convention, and its work is of the utmost importance to the trade of St. Louis, which would be enormously stimulated by road betterment throughout Missouri and in neighboring states.

The railroad "king" now wants a locomotive as much as Richard wants a horse.

WEATHER BUREAU SCIENCE.

As a source of information concerning the weather the weather bureau is several degrees inferior to the oldest inhabitant with a goosebone.
For three or four days the guessers of that "scientific" department predicted a cold wave. But the mercury rose steadily and the wave turned out to be only hot air.
Housekeepers, warned by the forecasters, started fires in furnaces and burned several dollars' worth of coal, made themselves uncomfortable and smoked up the house.
The case is not singular. Most of the forecasts of the scientific gentlemen are verified—somewhere else. This one stands out,
however, because of the clamor made in its proclamation.
In sober seriousness, it is just as easy to make forecasts tossing a copper. The claim of the bureau to be scientific is preposterous. It is as scientific as betting on horse races.

It is charged that President Roosevelt says "I shawn't." If he says it at the right time, nobody should complain.

HEALTH BY SWEARING.

Dr. Paul Edwards of Chicago has made a remarkable discovery which he proposes to use in medical practice. He says that bodily organs have intelligence and when disordered may be cured by swearing.
If there is intelligence in the liver, the kidneys, the vermiform appendix and the knee joint, why not in boots, underwear and trousers?
If organs can be soiled into health, may not tight-fitting shoes and baggy trousers be set right with a few well-directed
"cuss" words?
Dr. Edwards may soon discover that his brains are in his feet.

The politician who "remembers his friends" at the expense of a tax-paying community may easily have an active memory.

UTOPIA ON REAL PARCHMENT.

The Chicago Housewives' Association is going to settle the domestic service question.
In future girls must hold diplomas issued by the association.
These are going to be on real parchment and will certify in old English script "to whom these presents come" that the holder ranks "satisfactory," "good" or "remarkably efficient."
To obtain a diploma a young woman must work one year. But once having earned it, she is assured first consideration from members of the association when she looks for a place.
The association has decided to abolish such words and phrases
as "mistress," "servant" and "girl," and instead "matron" and
"maid" will describe the first and second parties to the contract
of domestic service.
It is not expected that Utopia will enter in the shape of old English script or real parchment, but the aim of the association is to humanize the relation of matron and maid and introduce a better understanding between them. The effort is worth watching.

President Roosevelt will not take stock of his chances for the nomination in 1904 until after the speakership contest is settled.
The seed of a big party schism is seen in that fight.

WRITING LOVE LETTERS.

In response to the question of a young woman as to the best form to be used in writing a love letter, "Stella" sends to the People's Column of the Post-Dispatch what she calls "the real article" instead of recipe.
"Stella" starts off by calling the adored one "My Dearest."
"I think of many things to write," she says, "but my brain won't make up the sentences. It just says your name over and over—that's all. Won't you know that every mistake means a great thought of you? Were I callous, sweetheart, this would be a most perfect letter. Each T would be dashed and each T daintily dashed."
More letter may suit "Stella," but it is doubtful if it would succeed in any climate if directed at a "promoter."

any other human being. The only defect in "Stella's" love letter is that it is not a love letter. It is a mere stringing together of pretty phrases. "Stella" is not in love. She simply set up a lay figure and imagined what she would say if it were a real man, and she is in love with him. She has been reading romantic novels.
She has never sounded the depths of love. What does she care for its "its" and "its"? It only writes and writes, till the hand is weary. It rushes on and on, regardless of details, till the pen is aglow, fairly burning up the paper. It has no trouble about "making up" its sentences. They write themselves.
Good wine needs no bush, and love no tutor.
Love cares no more for "recipes" than for locksmiths. It will find a way to express itself regardless of the paucity of language. It has but three words in its vocabulary, but they are enough—"I love you." If you can string these three monosyllables over ten glowing pages, you are probably in love. If not, you must wait. No recipe will help you in the slightest degree.

If it is true that President Roosevelt has decided to throw Wall street over and devote his energies to measures for the benefit of the whole people, it is welcome information. The laws have certainly been strained for the benefit of Wall street and the grasping interests the street represents. It is time to try them for the benefit of the country at large. Give Wall street what it is entitled to—justice and nothing more. It will take care of itself.

THE ONLY WAY OF RELIEF.

The State Supreme Court sustained the motion of Attorney-General Crow to quash the petition for a writ of mandamus in the case of William Preston Hill to compel the State Board of Equalization
to assess the property of franchise corporations at their cash value, as individual property is assessed in this city.
No opinion was handed down in the case. This action of the Supreme Court puts an end to all hope of interference with the State Board of Equalization on the part of the courts of the state. It is possible that the case may be taken to the federal court.

The only way of relief for the people from an unjust mode of taxation which excuses millions of dollars' worth of property
held by corporations under franchise grants, and shifts the burden upon the property of individual citizens, lies in the election of men who will deal justly with the corporations.
There is not a shadow of excuse for the tax inequalities existing in St. Louis. Under the constitution the property of the franchise corporations should be taxed on the same basis as other property. There is a franchise tax law, passed by the state legislature two years ago, and approved by Gov. Dockery, providing for the taxation of franchise property at its actual value.

But the pull of the franchise corporations is more powerful with the state's officers than the interests of the people. The corporations are generous contributors to party campaign funds.

The lumber company that owns 1,250,000 acres of pine lands in Texas may not be after the earth, but it would like to have what timber is growing on it.

IMPROVE THE RIVER FRONT.

Prof. Zuehlke's suggestion, at the meeting of the Tenth Ward Civic Improvement Association, as to improving the river front,
is in line with what the Post-Dispatch has urged.

Prof. Zuehlke says that the river front should be changed entirely and made into a public park with bathing places. While this is too large a program to carry out immediately, steps can be taken to bring it about gradually. The waterworks park is a beginning. And the proposition by the park department to create a public park on the river front at the junction of Grand avenue and Broadway would, if carried into effect, be another important step in the right direction. As fast as conditions favor it, land should be condemned and unsightly, ramshackle
buildings torn down between these locations, so that a string of small parks and gardens may be made along the Levee. And rows of trees and boulevards should connect these into one system. Let a beginning of a river front boulevard be made at the north and south ends.
New York has its Riverside Park, Battery Park, Bowling Green,
East River Park, Highbridge Park, Pelham Bay Park, Rutgers
Park and Bronx Park, all situated on river fronts. Paris, London, Boston and many other cities have reclaimed and beautified their river frontage. A river front redeemed from squalor and made attractive should be one of the chief objects of those who are working for a new St. Louis.

One objection to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico is that their senators would have the same power as those of the most populous states. But the American system provides for two senators for each state. The three territories are as much entitled to the benefits of this system as are any small states. If there is unfairness in the admission of territories, it is the fault of the system.

HOW TO READ YOUR SWEETHEART'S TRAITS

The Trustful Eye

By Harriet Hubbard Ayer.

When you classify your best girl's eyes
the first point to consider is the size.

Large eyes in women are considered essential to beauty.

Every writer describing a beautiful face dwells upon the large, lustrous eyes. The painter seeks a large-eyed model to typify
beauty.

The actress makes her eyes up for the stage, increasing their size by the cunning
use of cosmetics which are always dis-
signed to make the eyes appear larger and more beautiful than it naturally would.

Women with round, bright open eyes are usually of a lively, quick disposition, energetic and always busy about something.

When the eyes are full, rather prominent,
and move freely in the sockets the subject
is sure to have an excellent memory and

usually is what is called a good talker.

Such women make fine business associates—they are loyal in love, but the woman with these eyes must choose a man her equal in intellect and resource or she will find herself unable to regard him with sentimental fondness.

Brown eyes are said to be most loyal.
Blue eyes fascinating but inconstant and
gray eyes indicate shrewdness and talent.

It is said that gray-eyed women have better
heads than hearts—but the calm, clear
gray-eyed woman is conscientious and compassionate. She is undemonstrative in love and means much more than she says, while the girl with the blue eyes often says a great deal more than she means. Please remember these are the opinions of renowned authorities. My humble conviction is that the form and expression, not the color, tells the story of the eyes.

After a Rain.
It looks ridiculous to see the crossings
impassable after a rain and the streets in such deplorable condition anywhere beyond Taylor avenue and St. Louis avenue when the city spends the money employing about 50 men on a few downtown streets picking up a few pieces of paper or scraping a little manure. Why not use that money where it is absolutely needed so that people will not have to walk knee-deep in mud? This should be remedied by the street department.

Overcrowding the Theaters.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Last Sunday evening while in the balcony
of the Columbia Theater I found it necessary to go outside for a few minutes. The people in the row I was sitting in all arose
and let me pass, but when I got to the aisle I found it completely blocked up.
Not only were the extra seats on the side
used, but two persons were crowded in between them and the wall on each step.
In coming back I found it almost impossible to pass them again and would have given up the task had I not left my lady friend
sitting there.

I thought there was a city ordinance
against the blocking of aisles in theaters. If there is, I wonder why it is not enforced.

With the increased prices they are getting this season I don't think it necessary
for them to do so. Yours complaisantly,
M. Y. TROUBLES.

A Letter for Stella.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
My Dear Sweetheart—For several days past I have been anxious to write you. I have so many things to tell you that I hardly know where to begin. I wonder if you will be surprised to hear that I think you are the kindest, dearest, best, and truest of men. I scarcely know whether I am acting rightly in writing all this to you, sweetheart, but I do love you dearly
and shall always. I hope it won't be much longer before I see you. By day and by night my thoughts are of you only. Much very much more could I say. I am really lonely without you near. My parting wish is that you will write to me as often as possible, stating every little particular that you can think of about yourself. Remember me in your prayers, keep me in your good wishes and let your heart remain
all my own. Now and always yours lovingly, STELLA.

pers, dissolve half a dozen glances into
a well of silence; dust a small quantity of hesitation, one ounce of resistance, two of yielding. Place the kisses on a cushion of cheek or two lips, flavor with a slight scream and set aside to cool. This will succeed in any climate if directed at a carefully followed. C. W. BUNSHINE.

MADAME JUDICE ON DRESSMAKING

... A Series of Helpful Hints ...

NEW WAISTS AND STOCKS.

make a good ground for trimming with
many small buttons or five large ones
which sometimes reach the size of a 50-
cent piece.
Another style of waist closes invisibly
under two forward turning tucks that are flatly stitched and trimmed with small
buttons near the edge, or small braid
"frogs" overlapping.
Yokes are seen also, but not the deep affairs of last season. The latest ones
are quite shallow, some square, others
pointed, but few round. In the plain or tal-lor waist they are covered with machine
stitching in contrasting colors, forming all sorts of fanciful figures. Velvet ribbon lattice is another popular mode of trimming, and frequently small buttons are used in the yoke at the top of each tuck
in the full portion.
Stocks of every hue and description, so
dear to the tailor-made girl's heart, are worn with the blouse; and sometimes,
to the very severe, a linen collar and crav-
at. But the fancy stock is usually more becoming to the feminine gender, and it gives great scope for ingenuity, for if a woman has any talent for making such things, she can have an unlimited quantity and variety. Often little bits of leftover trimming, velvet scraps and odd buttons can be fashioned into works of art,
which if purchased outright would be very expensive, for one seldom sees anything
artistic for the neck under a $2 bill.
In many cases the fancy stock will take away the "home-made" look from a blouse
that is fashioned by the maker.

HYPNOTISM USED TO SOLVE MURDER

UNDER ITS INFLUENCE NEGRO DESCRIBES THE CRIME.

REFUTES HIS OWN STATEMENT

Admitted Double Crime When Arrested, but, Under Spell, Said Four Men Paid Him to Take Blame.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 11.—Hypnotism has been applied as a test to a former convict named Miller, a negro, who confessed to the murder of Gugie Bourquin and his colored body servant.

Miller said he was hired by a white man to kill Bourquin. His confession was generally regarded as a pure fabrication and he was put under hypnotic influence in order to prove or disprove his strange story. Miller, in his trance, said he did not fire the shot that killed Bourquin, but that he heard them and knew who fired them. He was put into a buggy with two officers and made to go through with what he alleged to have been his connection with the tragedy. Still in a trance, he drove into the country and pointed out the exact locality where he claims the shooting occurred. Miller described minutely four men who, according to his story, murdered Bourquin. Miller is illiterate, being able to neither read or write. His story is not believed to be true, in spite of his apparent hypnotic confirmation.

While Miller was under hypnotic influence, he said the men agreed to pay him to say he committed the crime.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's for One Thing Only, and St. Louis is Learning This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only. They're for sick kidneys. They cure backache, every kidney ill. Here is St. Louis evidence to prove it. Fred Langenbach, accountant, 4149 Shumacher av., says: "I have asked more than one of my neighbors and acquaintances to go to the Wolf-Wilson Drug Co. for Doan's Kidney Pills. If I was not absolutely certain that the preparation acts just as represented I would not have done so. For eight or ten months I noticed that the secretions from the kidneys were too active, particularly observable at night. It struck me that Doan's Kidney Pills might help me, and I was not disappointed. A dose or two plainly told me that I had obtained the proper remedy. A continuation of the treatment radically disposed of the trouble."

INDIANS WANT RIGHT TO VOTE

Movement on Foot to Hold a Congress of All Tribes.

TO MEET IN SOUTH DAKOTA

DEMAND TO BE MADE FOR FRANCHISE FOR ALL.

Only a Few Old Men Are Now Allowed to Vote and the Young Men Seek the Right of Suffrage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROSEBUD, S. D., Nov. 11.—Preparations are going on for what it is expected will be the largest and most important congress of American Indians the country has ever witnessed. The red men, seeing that certain tribes are permitted to cast ballots in the elections held in their districts, have concluded that all should be registered as full-fledged American citizens, not alone entitled to hold real estate as individuals, but to express by their suffrage their preferences for candidates for all political offices, from justices of the peace to the presidential nominees.

It is asserted by Indians who are concerned in the proposed congress that they are now en route to every tribe in the United States. These couriers are authorized by their respective tribes to acquaint the tribes they visit with the plans for the conference and to secure the pledge of each tribe to send delegates to the proposed congress.

May Be Held at Rosebud.

On what date and at what agency the congress is to be held has not been determined, but from the fact that the Omahas, Winnebagoes, Cheyennes, and some of the Sioux are entitled to vote under existing laws, it is believed that the conference is to be called for one of the agencies established for some one of the four tribes. The Rosebud agency appears to be the one that is most likely to be selected, because of its proximity to the reservations of the West. This will require a long journey by some of the delegates.

The information regarding the congress comes from confidential sources, and, as the organizers have arranged the preliminary details in secret councils, all those attending being pledged to the utmost secrecy, it is difficult to obtain positive and exact information regarding the gathering. So far as can be learned, no definite plan of procedure has yet been agreed upon, but the advanced tribes contain many men of education, skilled in dealings with the white man, and it is believed that once the congress is assembled, it is believed, methods of assailing Congress for general legislation entitling the Indian to vote will soon be devised and will quickly be put into execution.

Intense dissatisfaction exists among the Indians with the school system which the government is maintaining. The Indian that is the worthy member of the race wishes to be taught to work, as in that lies his salvation. The inculcation of the higher branches of knowledge only serves to degrade the Indian in the sight of his mates, as the educated Indian is looked upon among his people much as is the "scholar" of the cities of civilization.

Want Instruction How to Work.

The school question will also probably be taken up at the forthcoming congress and a demand upon the government formulated to the effect that the Indians be given education in the mechanical, advanced farming and along other lines which will permit the race to establish itself on a plane of progress.

The congress, it is believed, will be held sometime during December, but it may be at a later or possibly, even at an earlier date. The gathering will be, from its results, an important one in a political way, for if the Indians are successful in securing franchise privileges for all male members of the race, a huge addition to the western vote will be recorded and it will be problematical to which of the political parties this vote will incline. In one respect the enfranchisement of the Indian race will furnish opportunities for fraud, as the average Indian is highly susceptible to metallic influences.

JOHN J. GALLIER'S FUNERAL.

City Employees Act as Pallbearers for Fire Alarm Operator.

The body of John J. Gallier was buried in Calvary Cemetery yesterday morning after services at St. Alphonsus (Rock) Church, conducted by Rev. Father Shea. He died Saturday at his residence, 3725 Evans avenue.

Mr. Gallier was born in Newport, Ky., and was 46 years old. In 1878 he married Miss Nora Sullivan of this city, and she is survived by her, three daughters, Estelle, Irene and Edna and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Cassidy and Miss Annie Gallier. For the last 19 years he was an operator in the City Fire Alarm and Telegraph Department. The following employees of the city acted as pallbearers: Robert Quin, Timothy Almond, Will Doherty, William Gallagher, Clay Sexton and Michael McHenry.

High School Contract Awarded.

The building committee of the Board of Education, at its meeting yesterday, decided to recommend that the contract for the construction of the James F. Yeatman school be given to A. H. Haeckler, whose bid, the lowest, was $24,000. The committee on instruction will recommend at today's meeting of the board the passing of the resolution providing for free text books.

GROOMSMEN HER PALLBEARERS

Mrs. C. Nesbit Duffy Buried From Same Church in Which She Was Married.

The funeral of Mrs. C. Nesbit Duffy, who died Saturday in Chicago, was held yesterday at St. Alphonsus Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery. A special train brought the body from Chicago, where her husband, formerly secretary of the Citizens' Railway Co. of this city, is secretary of the Chicago Street Railway.

Mrs. Duffy was Miss Alice Cunningham of Mexico, Mo., and was 27 years old. She was married just eight years ago, and the same bells that tolled yesterday for her funeral merrily rang out the wedding chimes then, while the same men who served as ushers and groomsmen then, served as pallbearers yesterday. They are as follows:

Richard McCulloch of Chicago, Capt. B. E. Spiekerman, James R. Goodman, A. S. Partridge, Frank Henry and Alfred Bauer. Mrs. Duffy was a niece of Mrs. A. C. Cassidy of this city, whom she frequently visited before her marriage.

ENGLISHMEN DISTRUST KAISER.

Press Warns the Government Against Any Agreements With Him.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The English press continues to regard the German Emperor's visit with suspicion and distrust. He is generally assumed that he is here for business purposes and that he must not be allowed to have what he wants. The conjectures respecting his mission differ widely, but the conclusion is the same in every instance, namely, that the minister must be on their guard and decline all overtures for joint action of England and Germany, whether in East Africa, Asia Minor or the Yangtze valley.

NO CAR SHORTAGE HERE.

General Manager McChesney Says Terminal Expects No Difficulty.

Railroad officials declare that the freight car shortage reported in other cities has not affected St. Louis, but that if Chicago and New York and other great commercial centers should experience a shortage St. Louis would be affected, as the demand for transportation facilities here is constantly increasing. General Manager McChesney of the Terminal Association says there is no likelihood of a car shortage as far as the terminal is concerned. Within the past year he says that association has added 26 new locomotives, a large amount of track and new yards in East St. Louis, with a capacity of 1000 cars.

Billboard Barred.—An adverse report was rendered by the lands and leasing committee of the Mullanphy Board yesterday concerning the proposition of the St. Louis Bill Posting Co. to erect a billboard on the property of the Mullanphy Relief Association on Eleventh street, between Cass avenue and Mullanphy street. The report was unanimous and declared that billboards should not be allowed on any property under control of the board.

TEACHERS SPLIT ON UNIONISM.

Many Members of Chicago Federation Threaten to Leave It.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—As a result of a vote in favor of affiliation of the Chicago Teachers' Federation with the Federation of Labor, the former organization is threatened with disruption. Miss Ella A. Rowe has resigned as president, assigning as the cause her disapproval of the action of the teachers. Half the teachers, Miss Rowe says, are of her mind, and it is said many will follow her out of the federation. The organization, which contains 3500 grade teachers, will, it is believed, be divided on this issue.

TIERED OF LORD MAYOR'S SHOW.

Londoners Protest Against the Annual Blocking of Streets.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The lord mayor's show blocked the streets for hours and caused a renewal in the business quarter of protests against the annual recurrence of this pageant, which has ceased to be either picturesque or impressive. The protests are louder this year than usual.

DEATH STOPPED THE WALTZ.

Young Woman Fell in Midst of Dance and Expired.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—From a scene of joyous gaiety, a dancing academy in East Fourteenth street was suddenly changed to one of deepest gloom.

While dancing with her partner and apparently in the heat of health and spirits Elizabeth Syme, a young woman of Bayonne, N. J., sank suddenly to the floor and died before medical aid reached her.

The young man with whom she was dancing had no intimation of her illness until in the middle of the room, she turned to him and said she did not feel well, falling as she concluded the remark.

A physician was summoned, but he pronounced the young woman dead from an internal hemorrhage.

THE PUSH IDEA

The Hoe printing presses seem to have reached the triumphant culmination of mechanical ingenuity. Robert Hoe has a maxim that throws a side light upon his character. "Get behind a thing and push it; don't put yourself in front and pull."

What a satisfaction to know that so many progressive jobbers and manufacturers now realize the same thing in regard to TRUCKS. Get behind a truck and push—don't stick to the old-fashioned trucks—the "pull" kind.

The right idea is always applied in the manufacture of
